Made With The Help of Bees

This activity is focused on raising awareness of the importance of bees to the environment, our ecosystems and our food chain.

So many products, not all of them food, are made with the help of bees. Honey bees make honey and beeswax, but all bees contribute a great deal to life on earth, through the pollination of plants.

Research the importance of bees in everyday life by looking for and listing all the products you can find in the home or supermarket that are made with the help of bees.

You can include anything containing honey or beeswax but also anything that is made from a plant that is pollinated by bees.

E.g. Strawberries, strawberry jam and strawberry ice-cream are all made with the help of bees because they contain strawberries, the fruit produced by the strawberry plant as a result of pollination.

Perhaps your favorite food is made with the help of bees?

Time to find out!
